Commissioner:

Appellants Mark Skiba et al appeal from the final rejection of claims 9-13

1. REAL PARTY IN INTEREST

The real party in interest is Storactive Corporation, whose assets were recently acquired by Atempo, Inc.

2. RELATED APPEALS AND INTERFERENCES

None. However, applicant filed a Pre-Appeal Brief Request for Review. The panel's decision appears below in the RELATED PROCEEDING APPENDIX

3. STATUS OF CLAIMS

Claims 9-13 are pending in the case and are subject to this appeal. These claims appear in an Appendix hereto.. Claims 1-8 have been withdrawn and 14-21 have been cancelled.

4. STATUS OF AMENDMENTS

Claims 20 and 21 were cancelled after the Notice of Allowance.

5. SUMMARY OF CLAIMED SUBJECT MATTER

As described on page 25, lines 26-28 and page 28, lines 25-31 of the application, a copy of a file being backed up or changed is temporarily stored. This is called "mirroring". As described on page 25, lines 28-33 and page 28, lines 25-26, the differences (changes) in the backed up file are stored. This is called "versioning". Mirroring and versioning are common processes in backing up files on a scheduled basis. As described on page 8, line 34 to page 9, line 5 under the heading "Continuous Protection", and on page 31, line 22 to page 32, line 5, applicants' novelty lies in the process of backing up files each time one of the files is updated, i.e. changed, rather than at regular intervals dictated by a time schedule.

6. GROUNDS OF REJECTION TO BE REVIEWED ON APPEAL

The sole issue in this appeal is whether the claimed invention would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art under 35 USC 103(b) from the Uemura and Dunn references of record.

7. ARGUMENT

Claims 9 to 13 stand rejected under 35 USC 103(b) as obvious from the Uemura and Dunn references of record. All the claims stand or fall together. It is proposed that the Board select claim 9 and decide this appeal on the basis of that claim. The remaining claims on appeal are all directly or indirectly dependent on claim 9.

The examiner has rejected claim 9 as obvious from the Uemura and Dunn references of record. He concedes that Uemura does not disclose the step of "storing a copy of the updated file and storing the differences in such copy each time one of the files is updated (emphasis added)". However, referring to Dunn's Abstract, the examiner takes the position it would be obvious from the teachings of Dunn to perform the claimed storing steps each time one of the files is updated. This interpretation of Dunn flies in the face of the expressed language of his disclosure, including his Abstract, which talks about periodic data dumps and other data handling activities at regular intervals. This is the antithesis of backing up each time the files are updated. Nowhere does Dunn suggest backing up data each time the data is updated as set forth in Claim 9.

Application No. 10/027,700

8. CONCLUSION

Accordingly, the rejection of claims 9-13 is without basis and should be reversed.

9. CLAIM APPENDIX

9. A method for backing up data stored in files as the data is updated, the method comprising:

- updating one of the files;
- temporarily storing a copy of the updated file (mirroring);
- comparing the copy of the updated file with the file prior to updating;
- storing the differences in the copy of the updated file (versioning); and
- repeating the foregoing steps each time one of the files is updated.

10. The method of claim 9, additionally comprising restoring one of the files to a previous condition by:

- temporarily storing a copy of the current version of the file being restored;
- applying the stored differences to the stored copy of the current version to produce a copy of an earlier version of the file being restored, and
- repeating the two recited steps until a desired version of the file is produced.

Application No. 10/027,700

11. The method of claim 10, in which the temporarily stored copy is stored until the next time one of the files is updated.

12. The method of claim 9, in which the temporarily stored copy is stored until the next time one of the files is updated.

13. The method of claim 9, additionally comprising restoring one of the files to a previous condition by:

applying the stored differences to the updated file to produce a copy of a later version of the file being restored; and repeating the recited step until a desired version of the file is produced.

12. EVIDENCE APPENDIX

Appellant is not relying on an evidence.

13. RELATED PROCEEDING APPENDIX

See attached Notice of Panel Decision from Pre-Appeal Brief Review mailed August 25, 2005 which is attached hereto as an Appendix.
